

Last Argentine Mohawk bows out

The Argentine Army retired its last serviceable Grumman OV-1D Mohawk, AE-039, in November. A total of 22 Mohawks arrived in the country in 1994, but none have flown since 2012. Eight were traded for other aircraft. OV-1D AE-039 has been maintained in ground running condition and its Lycoming T-53 turboprops were fired up at a farewell ceremony on November 26. JUAN CARLOS CICALES